Dear Mr. Leshtaev,

On behalf of the Hackett Hemwall Patterson Foundation, I would like to express our sincere gratitude for your continued generous donations towards our service-learning trips. The polidocanol provided by Kreussler Pharma Company has allowed us to organize successful service-learning trips to Honduras for many years. The impact of your support is immeasurable, and it deeply touches the lives of the individuals and communities we have the privilege to assist. While the shipment you sent earlier this year has not yet been released, with the intervention from some governmental officials, we are hopeful that it will be released before the drug has expired.

We are again asking for a donation of polidocanol for our missions. In light of the current customs and importing situation beginning March, 2023, we appreciate your willingness to consider alternate arrangements to ship the product to Canada for us to acquire, rather than jumping through so many hoops with customs in Honduras. We are grateful to John Zanin from Methapharm for accepting the shipments and assisting us. The willingness on both your parts to assist with these logistical arrangements ensures that we can continue to coordinate our medical missions with the necessary supplies.

The Hackett Hemwall Patterson Foundation is still planning a reduced service-learning trip this upcoming fall, hopeful that we are able to retrieve the polidocanol you sent in January. For this mission, as well as our long-standing March mission, we are humbly seeking your continued support. With the assistance from Mr. Zanin at Methapharm, we are confident that we will be able to carry in what we need for both missions. Please see the attached photos of the 2023 March mission and our dedicated volunteers.

Once again, we extend our heartfelt thanks to Kreussler Pharma Company for your invaluable support in the past and for considering our request for the upcoming service-learning trips. Your commitment to corporate social responsibility and dedication to making a positive impact in the world is truly inspiring.

Thank you for your time, consideration, and ongoing support.

With profound gratitude,

Kay Weeden
President
